A tête-à-tête with the Mediterranean

Ramatuelle – on the Saint-Tropez peninsula. Just a few minutes from the legendary village lies a place away from the buzz, far from the crowds and noise. La Réserve Ramatuelle overlooks one of the most beautiful bays on the French Riviera, with a spectacular view over the endless sea, a vast private estate nestled in the Provence garrigue (Mediterranean scrubland), lulled by the sound of cicadas. A world apart, suspended between sky and sea, fused with an exceptional natural environment.

Disconnect. Reconnect with yourself.

Here, every southern dream comes true according to the whim of the moment...

- At La Réserve Ramatuelle – Hotel and Spa, be it in the 8 rooms and 19 suites, created by architect Jean-Michel Wilmotte;
- Or in one of the 14 villas at La Réserve Ramatuelle - Villas with hotel services, decorated by interior designer, Rémi Tessier.

For all villas, guests can choose between two hotel service options: the Tailor-made offer or the All-inclusive offer, for an exceptional stay.

La Réserve Ramatuelle invites you to recharge your batteries thanks to a secret hideout, an exclusive vision of a sublimely authentic South.

Flashback to the artsy French Riviera of the 1950s

In 2021, La Réserve Ramatuelle is undergoing a major makeover by means of a new decorative concept in harmony with its modernist 1950s architecture. In doing so, Michel Reybier, founder of Michel Reybier Hospitality, sought to pay tribute to the arty chic spirit of the French Riviera in an era when it was a magnet for artists. From the lobby to the new patio-bar, signed artworks, antique objects and unique custom-made pieces celebrate the genius of Cocteau and Roger Capron. A declaration of love for epicurean delights and the light, airy feel of happy days, bathed in the magical light of the Côte d'Azur.

NEW WAVE

Suspended between sky and sea, this intimately exclusive luxury hotel has been treated to a decor perfectly reflecting its original architectural identity. The new atmosphere was defined by Michel Reybier in conjunction with Jacques Garcia and reveals a new facet of the latter's talent, inspired by the golden age of decorative arts in the 1950s and 1960s, when Cocteau, Picasso, Roger Capron, Robert Picault and the greatest artists of the time were shaping modernity in the legendary Vallauris workshops. The artistic and literary avant-garde would congregate on the French Riviera and this creative vibrancy made a major contribution to the legendary status achieved by Saint-Tropez.

Like a return to roots, the new interior design of La Réserve Ramatuelle fits naturally into the typically Fifties architecture of the surroundings.

WHITE PARADISE

In the South, white is the color of summer. It would be impossible to choose a more elegant backdrop. La Réserve Ramatuelle offers an infinite variety of shades of white, exploring a whole palette of nuances, from pristine to ivory, from cream to beige, from honey to fawn. Here and there are a few touches of blue and green, like an acknowledgment of the hotel's exceptional natural surroundings amid sky, sea and hills.

This luminous white canvas offers a dream setting for a play on authentic raw materials. Ceramics, terracotta, rare blond woods, enameled lava stone, overhead veils dancing in the breeze... The decor invites you to enjoy an experience brimming with multiple visual as well as tactile sensations; to better appreciate the hand-crafted materials ranging from the simplest to the noblest. It's hard to resist the urge to caress the bare wooden top of the tables fashioned from very fine-grained, incredibly soft light oak.

ARTS & CRAFT

Michel Reybier has sought to make La Réserve Ramatuelle a natural extension of the Riviera's Belle Époque and to honor its amazing artistic heritage.

The sculpted lights featuring organic shapes and soft luminosity were created by Julien Capron, grandson of the famous Vallauris ceramic artist, Roger Capron. Julien is also the author of the handmade jars and the artwork in the library composed of blue and green ceramic tiles. The entirely refurbished restaurant has retained its beautiful and equally metamorphosed double-sided fireplace. Jean Cocteau's collection of original plates with their iconic poetic motifs is of course still there – a vintage reference picked up in the staircase leading to the spa which features a large fresco with a painted coating that looks as if it has been there forever. The painter emulated the plant motifs drawn by Cocteau in the Saint-Blaise-des-Simples chapel in Milly-la-Forêt, the artist's last residence. Ceramic effects are omnipresent, from elaborate wall panels to finely wrought furniture façades. Setting the perfect finishing touch, signed works of art are dotted amongst the pure lines of the new Scandinavian-style light wood furniture.

RENDEZVOUS AT THE BAR, ON THE PATIO

Completely reinvented in the same vein as the restaurant, the bar has taken up its summer quarters on the patio. On one side, a huge counter made of ivory enameled lava stone. On the other, an outdoor fireplace decorated with plant motifs. And in the middle, soft sofas inviting you to relax around a majestic olive tree. As the sun dips towards the horizon, imagine yourself sipping a cocktail in the festive atmosphere of this new patio-bar which has everything required to get the party started. A little later, all you have to do is settle in at one of the neighboring tables to savor the delights of the two Michelin-starred La Voile restaurant.

RETRO NOSTALGIA

Who wouldn't dream of a summer bursting with freedom in a place exuding incredible chic? The renaissance of La Réserve Ramatuelle resounds like a long-awaited promise of escape... The world has changed, and so has La Réserve Ramatuelle. The greatest artists have reawakened its soul and all that remains is to explore its secrets.

Remote hideaways

The French Riviera in private mode

A property just for you and your loved ones, splendid intimacy interrupted only by the sound of cicadas... Be it for an escapade or for a holiday, the 14 villas for rent at La Réserve Ramatuelle awaken a desire for voluntary exile...

Immense Mediterranean gardens descending towards the pinewoods, a private swimming pool whose azure reflections appear to blend with the blue of the sea and sky, Saint-Tropez style architecture blending with contemporary interior design... A warm, elegant second home, a spirit of “family life” to relax, to breathe, to think of nothing but the joy of being together.

As far as the rest is concerned, hotel services are there to ensure daily comfort. The housekeeper handles everything, from breakfast to shopping and day-to-day organization in accordance with individual wishes. She is backed by the concierge available at any time to map out leisure activities and à la carte services, as well as the in-home chef and the on-demand butler. All are dedicated to fulfilling every desire and to making tailor-made dreams come true, so that their guests can savor the pleasure of experiencing moments of complete and unfettered freedom.

14 VILLAS SET AMIDST THE SPLENDORS OF MEDITERRANEAN NATURE

A far cry from the anonymous standards replicated worldwide, the villas at La Réserve Ramatuelle flaunt an architecture typical of this legendary peninsula that is a unique site around the Mediterranean. Each exudes a subtle, friendly and warm authenticity. Soft terracotta tiles, immaculate white walls, crisp linen and other natural fabrics that dance with light and shade, pure and contemporary furniture lending a modern touch... The atmosphere is filled with the welcoming atmosphere of a true southern family home. A place with a true soul that immediately makes one wish to settle in, kick back and unwind...

A HOUSE ALL TO ONESELF FACING THE SEA

Clinging to the hillside, nestled in large, fragrant private gardens, all the villas look out onto the infinite blue expanses of the Mediterranean. Each has its private heated swimming pool, some of them with a pool house: an azure blue oasis making a striking contrast with the subtle green shades of the umbrella-like stone pines and the silvery leaves of the olive trees. And of course that supreme sense of peacefulness, barely troubled by a playful breeze, that gives one the impression of being in a unique bubble of serenity.

The villas have three to seven spacious rooms ensuring individual comfort and privacy: en suite bathrooms for each room, a fully equipped dressing room... Whether as a family or among friends, this is a place designed for the sheer joy of being together.

Pilates classes in a private studio

A comprehensive method for strengthening the deep muscles that define posture, Pilates is ideal for improving awareness of one's body, strength and limitations, and for making better use of them. In 2020, the Spa at La Réserve Ramatuelle is introducing Pilates sessions in a private studio designed to ensure maximum benefit in complete privacy. Passionate enthusiasts well-trained in the technique created by Joseph Pilates in New York in 1920, the coaches now work with the the Align-Pilates® Reformer Demi Cadillac to optimize its effects. The work is organized around six fundamental principles:

- Lateral thoracic breathing to make better use of the lungs.
- Concentration, to ensure optimal quality of the exercises thanks to awareness of each movement and its execution.
- Centering, which bases all movements on the abdominal wall, the body's energy core.
- Control, which combines breath and mind to control and feel every posture, every gesture in full consciousness.
- The flow of each movement, always carried out in a smooth and graceful manner so as to bring the expected balance and harmony.
- Precision, which is more about perfect quality of execution than the quantity of exercises. The moves must be carefully calculated so as to have a real impact on the muscles.

WITH ITS TWO MICHELIN STARS,

La Voile flies the flag of excellence

DELICIOUS CUISINE WITH THE GOOD TASTE TO DO YOU GOOD

In awarding a second star to the restaurant La Voile, the Michelin Guide is rewarding the passion and rigorous discipline of Eric Canino, who has consistently displayed virtuoso skills in interpreting Southern flavors since the opening of La Réserve Ramatuelle. Profoundly attached to a well-balanced diet, he has always made a bold gamble on top-flight and resolutely light gourmet cuisine. Drawing upon the abundant treasures of an inherently generous terroir, he applies his talent to rejuvenating a classic Provençal repertoire based on high-quality, superlative fresh produce. Yet his real accomplishment lies in crafting an inventive menu that succeeds in reconciling palate-pampering flavors with nutritional excellence. This magnificently delicate recipes elegantly tickle the taste buds while ensuring a guilt-free gastronomic experience. The ever-refined dishes offer an epicurean Mediterranean cuisine procuring delicious sensations to which one could easily become accustomed...

Light, nature, the sea...

At La Réserve Ramatuelle, the epitome of an exclusive hotel, the culinary offering reflects the prevailing rule of refinement, highlighting vegetables, thyme and rosemary from the kitchen garden, olive oil and organic products, all expressed through light and lively recipes... Executive Chef Eric Canino is a true artist with a golden touch!

AN ELEGANT TAKE ON MEDITERRANEAN CUISINE

Bread and pastries home-made every morning from organic flour; organic olive oil from the Manosque area, one of the ten best in the world; fruit and vegetables naturally cultivated near Cogolin; locally caught fish; produce from the La Réserve vegetable garden... Without compromising on excellence, Eric Canino calls on local artisans and producers chosen to transform exceptional raw materials into unforgettable taste sensations. Alongside his iconic «All-vegetable» menu, the chef has fun interpreting the ideal vegetable for each meat or fish: pepper expressed in three different ways, ravioli, piperade and risotto for St Pierre fish (John Dory); a variation on potatoes for monkfish candied like a bourride; eggplant chorus for lamb; artichoke trio... Meanwhile, desserts feature low sugar content designed to enhance the taste of the fruit

A RESTAURANT IN TUNE WITH ITS MAGICAL SETTING

The exceptional environment of La Réserve Ramatuelle directly inspires Eric Canino's choices and his cuisine reflects the extraordinary generosity of the unspoiled surroundings. It embodies gastronomy in tune with the times, bold enough to shake up the classics and embody the modernity of an iconic establishment on the Saint-Tropez peninsula. Open from April through October, the restaurant overlooks the sea with stunning views stretching to infinity, to be savored morning, noon and evening: breakfast on the terrace in front of the unreal colors of the sunrise that sets the sky ablaze; lunch in the shade on the patio; a gourmet dinner facing the blue horizon as far as the eye can see. With its two Michelin stars, La Voile has established itself as one of the most coveted hot spots on the French Riviera.

Summer Lunch by the water

A relaxed but glamorous dolce vita atmosphere at the pool restaurant. When the sun becomes too hot to bear, it's time to settle down in the shade of the pine trees and the big white sails to savor a range of fresh ideas from Michelin two-starred chef Eric Canino. When it's time for drinks, why not start with a glass of Château La Mascaronne organic wine, ranked among the best French rosé wines* and owned by Michel Reybier, founder of La Réserve? Very much inspired by the Mediterranean, the lunch menu brings together a range of best-loved summer dishes: colorful salads, raw fish specialties, pasta... Salmon avocado tartar in tempura, delicious Vitello Tonnato and Provençal-style Calamaretti are among the great favorites, to be enjoyed with homemade bread and olive oil from the estate. Foodies will then be faced with the tough job of taking their pick between lemon espuma, lemon leaf sorbet yuzu, apricot roasted with honey and almond nougatine sorbet and the deconstructed millefeuille with Madagascar vanilla. Truly a case of layer upon layer of culinary delights!

Cultivating natural excellence

On this peninsula far from urban pollution, the subtle alchemist's blend of air, water and earth provides a perfect terroir for growing typical Mediterranean fruit and vegetables. Eric Canino naturally seized this opportunity to create his dream kitchen garden.

Careful husbandry, seeds directly sourced from small Italian producers, home-made compost and home-grown seedlings, as well as daily care, all combine to make the kitchen garden of La Réserve Ramatuelle an inestimably precious reserve of flavors.

The chef's produce-filled baskets include 12 varieties of equally fleshy and luscious tomatoes, 'violin' or 'trumpet' zucchinis, white, purple and black eggplants, along with broad beans, peas, runner beans, red, green and yellow bell pepper – all growing alongside aromatic herbs ready to provide a subtle accompaniment: mint, summer savory, oregano, verbena, sweet basil, Madagascar lemongrass, marjoram...

Various types of fruit also flourish on this sundrenched land that gives them such intense flavors: strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and redcurrants, as well as orchards brimming with cherries, peaches, plums, apricots. Fruit-lovers can even climb up and enjoy them directly on the tree – where they naturally taste even better.

This determination to recapture the authenticity and the diversity of flavors is delightfully echoed in the resulting dishes. The close proximity between the garden and the restaurant kitchens ensures incomparable freshness. Each cut, each association, as well as each cooking method and timing is designed to highlight the vegetables and orchard fruit in a delightfully simple way. And Eric Canino takes great pleasure and passionate pride in showing guests the areas where the produce is grown and inviting them to sample it.

Although the orchard is located outside the grounds of La Réserve Ramatuelle, guests enjoy access to it.

A fusion of extremes

The generosity of plantlife, the purity of minerals

In Provence, nature expresses itself with entirely southern exuberance. There was never any question of curbing the wild, scented and colorful exuberance that endows it with such exceptional charm. All that landscape designers had to do was tame it so that the grounds could fully express their strength of character.

A visual shock... The initial glimpse of the location of La Réserve Ramatuelle is always a surprise – the kind that makes your heart beat faster. Firstly, the view over the sea, that magnetic blue horizon which catches and holds the gaze. An immense area blessed by nature, extending over a gentle slope from the top of a promontory right down to the sea below, the estate conceals all the emblematic treasures of the South in its pristine state, 100 and 200 year-old olive trees, majestic cypresses, orange groves... The grounds also have what it takes to delight one's sense of smell with myrtle and rosemary bushes and bay trees, creating a garden filled with the wonderful scents of Provence.

Nestling in this luxuriant vegetation making them almost invisible from the sea, the hotel and villas blend gently into the landscape in neutral monochromatic, ochre or terracotta harmony. The hotel grounds extend the contemporary spirit of the building, with large minimalist volumes entirely attuned to its streamlined style. The wooden decks and terraces ensure a seamless transition into mineral-type materials featuring a pared-down contemporary aesthetic offering a striking contrast: stone floors, braided rugs (Paola Lenti, Tai Ping), curtains made of linen or cotton (Marc Geisen, Kieffer...), minimalist furniture (Hans J. Wegner, Finn Juhl, Moroso, Flexform, Poltrona Frau, B&B, Roda)...

The chic Pampelonne stopover

On the most iconic beach of the Saint-Tropez peninsula, Michel Reyber – founder of the La Réserve establishments – has created La Réserve à la Plage, in cooperation with designer Philippe Starck. The original spirit of Saint-Tropez is found at La Réserve à la Plage.

La Réserve à la Plage is a place of elegance flowing from the sheer charm of life, from the best that humankind can offer us.

Dreams and desires, as well as memories of those happy days spent sleeping in the shade of reed screening, watching the boats pass by and laughing with friends.

It is a place of extreme quality stemming from a unique, personal and timeless creative intent.

La Réserve à la Plage is a return to the light and whimsical original spirit of Saint-Tropez, where anything is possible.

La Réserve à la Plage is a future classic.

Philippe Starck

THE RELAXED VIBE OF A CHARMING CABANA

On Pampelonne beach entirely redesigned to recapture its forgotten wild beauty, La Réserve à la Plage echoes these exceptional natural surroundings. Bar, restaurant, beach shop and sunbathing from morning to night... Michel Reyber wanted a charming, friendly place with a family atmosphere, a far cry from fleeting trends and attuned to his values of authenticity.

Amid this chic bohemian atmosphere, a few surprising details recall the heady pop-art vibe of the original Tropezian myth. This place is a veritable invitation to dream: filled with desires, memories and objects left behind by all the people who have experienced joyful beach time moments. Bright colors accentuate the purity of the natural materials in these surroundings filled with warmth, light, smiles, love, stories... and the story of La Réserve.

SUNNY LUNCHTIME FLAVORS

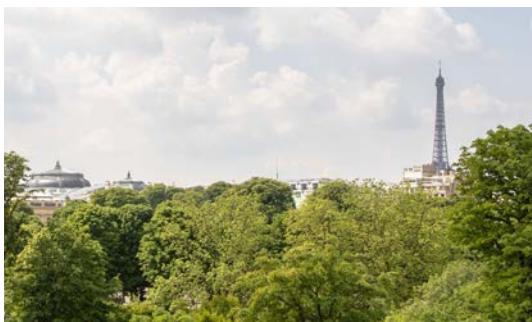

Designed by Eric Canino, Executive Chef of the two Michelin star restaurant La Voile at La Réserve Ramatuelle, with the help of Nicolas Cantrel, chef of La Réserve à la Plage, the menu celebrates generous and fragrant Mediterranean cuisine with its ethos of sharing and freshness. The wood-fired barbecue turns the spotlight on beautiful pieces of meat and freshly caught grilled fish, accompanied by vegetables enhanced with local aromatic herbs, some of them straight from the hotel's vegetable garden.

A chance to transition seamlessly – and barefoot – from warm sand to patina parquet flooring in order to share a few tapas or a friendly lunch facing stunning views sums up a particularly beautiful vision of summer happiness.

At the end of the day, the atmosphere turns more festive, with music and champagne to savor the gentle mood of the moment, feet in the sand, head in the stars, eyes gazing across countless shades of blue... An ideal stopover before moving on to the hectic Saint-Tropez nightlife.
